

Tea for two (hundred)

Fancy incorporating a little afternoon tea into your sophisticated wedding day? Well a new company called Tatty Mac might just be able to help. This vintage china and accessories hire service is based in Scotland, and is the place to go if you're looking for mismatched vintage china, glass cake stands, silver and glass candlesticks, and much more – combine the lot to create a shabby chic feel. Or go quirky by using delicate tea cups as part of your centrepieces. The Tatty Mac collection is constantly expanding, so give them a shout if there's something in particular you're looking for.

www.tattymac.co.uk
T: 07966 545390

I Could murder a scone

What's even better than playing a murder mystery game with your hen friends? Combining it with a dangerously tempting Sweetie Table of course. Top murder mystery company Blue Murder Events has teamed up with Venues to Menus so that you can enjoy stylishly presented, gorgeously scrumptious cakes, sweets and cookies while you figure out who's the killer. Table decorators will create the Sweetie Table while professional hosts come along and run your murder mystery event – all in your own home. Play-at-home murder mystery packages start from £45 per person and can be booked through Blue Murder Events or Venues to Menus.

www.bluemurderevents.co.uk
www.venuestomenus.com
T: 07946 424 111

Just for you

For a wedding band that's truly individual, how about the Fingerprint ring? Yep, you got it, these his and hers rings from designer jeweller Dominic Walmsley are engraved with your partner's fingerprint. Made in either solid gold or platinum, hers costs £965 (in platinum) and his comes in at £1,695.

www.dominicwalmsley.com
T: 0207 250 0125

what's new in planning.

Homegrown

Flowers by Monica Higgins in Edinburgh is launching a Scottish grown wedding service, available from May to October. Ideal for eco-conscious brides looking to reduce their carbon footprint by sourcing locally grown flowers, the number of varieties available is quite staggering. Scotland has lots of micro climates allowing plenty of floral growth for six months of the year. Would you believe that among the heather and gorse, lavender, oriental lilies, tulips, sweet peas, marigolds and more could thrive? Call Monica for further info.

www.flowersbymonicahiggins.co.uk
T: 0131 477 2923

Scottish flowers

HIGH IN THE SKY

Wedding trends come and go, but one we think looks set to continue for a while is letting off sky lanterns at the end of the night. They've been popular at festivals in China and Thailand for ages, but they're really catching on over here now too. We particularly love the fact that they provide a spectacle without costing very much. Just gather guests together and ask them to assemble and open up the lanterns, before standing back to watch the sky light up. How romantic – Sky Lanterns Online's wedding packages start at £14.99 for five lanterns.

www.skylanternsonline.co.uk
T: 01205 317 520

